Battle for national pride 7-page preview to the Home Internationals

Ron's got it all right for Rome

ENGLAND manager Ron Greenwood has shown once again that he's not content to stand still in his bid to produce a squad capable of winning next month's European Championship in Italy and, ultimately the World Cup in Spain in two years' time.

His selection of Alan Devonshire, Alan Sunderland and Paul Mariner for the squad for the Argentina game and the Home Internationals is to be applauded.

The new faces, following quickly on the heels of the call-up of Glenn Hoddle and Kevin Reeves, demonstrates quite clearly that Greenwood is planning light years ahead in his efforts to put England back on top of the world.

Not that Ron has gone overboard in his selection. The fact that he has retained experienced players like Emlyn Hughes and Trevor Cherry may not be popular in some quarters, but by staying loyal to the players who have proved their capabilities for England in the past, he has achieved that crucial blend of youth and experience which is as important off the field as on.

It is a squad with character and potential — and ability to spare to win the Home Internationals. And that includes defeat of Scotland on their own soil next Saturday!

The Home Internationals will of course again produce their own fervent brand of competitive football, but for England at least they take on an added significance this year.

It is important that we take to Italy the confidence borne out of a successful Home Championship. And it is especially important for the younger players, who have been presented with a great opportunity to establish a place for themselves in the full England set-up. A place in the European Championships is certainly not out of the question.

The FA Cup has given Devonshire and Sunderland the perfect platform on which to display their skills — now they must prove they can bridge that gap between club and country.

Paul Mariner too, who won the last of his five caps two years ago, must aim to reproduce his Ipswich form and become the centre-forward England has missed since Geoff Hurst.

ANDY Gray — Britain's costliest footballer — has his heart set on playing for Scotland in the World Cup and declares: "I have rarely felt as confident.

"My biggest asset is my fitness and mobility and I would like to think that this cannot be questioned after some of my later performances."

Gray was delighted with his return to the international scene after a 17-month break when he scored in the 4-1 victory by Scotland over Portugal.

He added: "A lot of people tend to forget that when I joined Wolves at the start of the season I was not as sharp as I should have been.

"But I hadn't played competitive football for seven months and after such a break it takes a long time to get back to full match fitness.

"John Barnwell, the Wolves manager, fully appreciated the position and now I believe that I am back to my best form and fitness."

TREV!

FITTINGLY it was gentleman footballer Trevor Brooking — playing in what may well be his last ever FA Cup Final — who scored the vital goal which wrenched the trophy from Arsenal's grasp.

Brooking stamped his class all over the Wembley turf. His elegant and deceptive skills were a controlling factor in the first half particularly and his headed winner was a just reward . . . even if it did have a slightly lucky tag attached to it.

It began with a move down the left and a penetrating run from Brooking's midfield partner Alan Devonshire.

"It's my natural game. I just got to the by-line and pulled the ball back. The cross fell to David Cross whose shot was blocked by Willie Young," said Devonshire.

The loose ball came to Stuart

Pearson who supplied the 'cross' for Brooking, but Pearson admitted after the game that he had in fact shot for goal.

"Luckily Trevor got his head to it. I have been involved in a few Finals, but I enjoyed this one more than any," said 'Pancho' Pearson.

And Brooking's own view: "I fell forward, the ball hit my head and it was a goal!"

Below: With Jennings out of position, Arsenal's desperate defence are helpless to prevent Trevor Brooking thumping in his 13th minute close-range header from Stuart Pearson's hard-hit centre. Left: Just terrific — the smile on Trevor's face says it all.

Match Weekly produces better pictures than Metro Goldwyn Mayer... no Cup Final would be complete without the special brand of football humour captured here on the banners of the Arsenal fans. But it was West Ham who had the last laugh.

This was the very last moment of action from the 1980 Cup Final. The ref is blowing for time and Hammer Paul Allen is already on his knees. But Arsenal's Willie Young (6) is still challenging for the ball with Ray Stewart.

It's all over for Arsenal. The expressions on the faces of Liam Brady (nearest camera), Alan Sunderland (arm raised) and Sammy Nelson say it all.

Best moment' — JOHN LYALL

Best day in club's history says West Ham boss

The Midfield Masters ...with West Brom boss

Ron Atkinson

It is no secret in Football that West Bromwich Albion manager Ron Atkinson is Dutch football's biggest fan.

He has always admired their 'style' above all, so this week he has taken the opportunity to analyse the way Dutch internationals Franz Thijssen and Arnold Muhren have influenced the Ipswich midfield this season.

And our popular columnist, in this the fourth of our Midfield Masters series, also discusses the roles of Eric Gates and John Wark who have also played major parts in the Portman Road revival.

Double

I NEVER tire of watching Dutch football. It has a certain style which I admire and the two internationals at Ipswich, Franz Thijssen and Arnold Muhren have certainly added a style of their own to the English scene.

They have had a great influence on the midfield and have played key roles in the Portman Road comeback since the East Anglian side sat rock bottom of the First Division in the autumn.

Wark too, has been solid and dependable between the two Dutchmen, while Eric Gates, operating between them and twin strikers Mariner and Brazil, has been the biggest single factor in the success run to a place in Europe.

Wark is the anchorman, just like John McGovern at Forest and Graeme Souness at Liverpool. He's aggressive, never stops running and pressurises people into errors. He's got one of the hardest shots in the game too and has the ability to break forward and pick up knock downs from Mariner and rifle in shots with great accuracy.

He lacks invention, I feel, but that comes from Thijssen and Muhren.

Thijssen has great close skills and an uncanny knack of being able to turn his back on players then turn again quickly and leave them for dead.

He's always combining with players, linking them into attack along the right flank, but it's a mystery to me why he has scored only three goals this season.

He has tremendous technique so I don't know why he hasn't scored more — I'm sure Bobby Robson will be working on that for next season.

He's the most ungainly looking of players but can wriggle free of close marking and in turn gets back behind the ball to make things difficult for players attacking him.

Muhren is very left-footed but his knowledge of the game and great range of passing doesn't make that a handicap. He has caused many problems with left foot crosses into the high inside right channel for Mariner to knock down into the path of Gates or Wark and organises the Ipswich set pieces as well as hitting those long inswinging corners.

ERIC GATES

He can crack a ball too, did you see that one at Southampton on April 26? Not strong defensively but knows enough to seal off space.

As I said, the key to the Ipswich fight-back has been the form of Eric Gates. When Ipswich lost

JOHN WARK

Clive Woods through injury, Robson was forced to adopt a new strategy because he'd lost his only winger.

It took time for a new pattern to settle but during the Ipswich burst up the table, Gates has been active just behind the front two and has proved so difficult to mark.

When we played them, we had difficulty fathoming his role, but I assigned our defensive midfielder Pop Robson to mark him with Batson marking Muhren, that way it didn't alter the shape of our midfield.

When Manchester United went to Ipswich, Dave Sexton admitted he made the mistake of taking Martin Buchan out of the back four to mark Gates — and the little fella caused them real problems in the 6-0 defeat.

FRANZ THIJSSSEN

Ron is right — I should score more

admits Franz Thijssen

FRANZ Thijssen agrees with Ron Atkinson that he should score more goals.

Before returning to Holland to prepare for the European Championship with the Dutch national squad, along with teammate Arnold Muhren, he admitted:

"Ron is right I should score more than the three I have to my name this season. With Twente Enschede I always used to score at least 10, but my role at Ipswich means I have to be along the right side. My job now is to make sure there are passes for the front men. If they are scoring then I am happy, though I did get a headed goal against Ron's team!"

Franz, voted Ipswich 'Player of the Year' by the Portman Road fans for his elegant influence on Town's success, explained how the midfield system works.

"Since Clive Woods was injured, Mr Robson had to change the midfield plan and that meant I had to play wide on the right with George Burley supporting me.

"John Wark is the ball winner in the middle — Arnold and I need one between us — and he also goes forward to score a lot of goals. He is a very good player for us.

"Arnold does the same job as me on the left side, linking up with Mick Mills at the back and Eric Gates playing just behind the front two, gives us alternatives in attack.

"Eric has been very important to our success. He gives us a choice of playing short to him and using his quick turn to get away from tackles, or playing longer balls to Paul Mariner and Alan Brazil.

"We noticed towards the end of the season Eric was getting tighter and tighter marked as teams began to understand our system, but I think that in two years we will get out of always coming third or fourth and perhaps be the top club."

The Ipswich midfield in action. The double thickness line under Gates signifies how he and Wark overlap in attack and the dotted line points out Muhren's favourite play of long crosses to Mariner's head.

April Matchmen of the Month

Andy Ritchie — First Division Matchman of the Month for April.

Ritchie's reward

ANDY RITCHIE — Manchester United's super young striker — is Match Weekly's First Division Matchman of the Month for April.

And he has earned the coveted award of a handsome inscribed plaque plus a cheque for £100 even though he has only made three full League appearances for the Reds this season.

Ritchie scored 25 out of a possible 30 in his three games for United during the month of April . . . and one of those was as substitute.

That gave him an average of 8.3 based on our weekly ratings — well clear of Derby's Alan Biley, who finds himself runner-up for the second successive month. Biley's average was 7.66 from six games.

Equal third were Bristol City's Gerry Gow and Gordan Cowans, of Aston Villa. They both averaged 7.5 from six games and each had 8★ and a 9★ rating.

Division One

Equal fifth, but with the same average of 7.5, were West Brom's rising young star Remi Moses and Dutchman Arnold Muhren of Ipswich (both had two 8★ ratings).

Player	Team	Games	Average
ANDY RITCHIE	Man Utd	3	8.3
Alan Biley	Derby Co	6	7.66
Gerry Gow	Bristol C	6	7.5
Gordon Cowans	Aston V	6	7.5
Remi Moses	West Brom	6	7.5
Arnold Muhren	Ipswich	6	7.5

Division Two

Much travelled Luton striker Bob Hatton gets the Second Division Matchman of the Month award by courtesy of his two 9★ ratings in the six games he played in April.

Second placed Tristram Benjamin of Notts County had the same average of 7.66 but only had one 9★ rating.

Chelsea's Ron Harris marks his last season with the club he has served for 20 years with third spot and Preston players Michael Baxter and Roy Tunks — the latter a twice winner of the award — finished fourth and fifth.

Player	Team	Games	Average
BOB HATTON	Luton	6	7.66
Tristram Benjamin	Notts C.	6	7.66
Ron Harris	Chelsea	5	7.6
Michael Baxter	Preston	5	7.6
Roy Tunks	Preston	5	7.6

Division Three

Following the success of his player/manager Howard Kendall in March, Blackburn midfielder Tony Parkes wins the award for April in the Third Division with an average of 7.75.

In fact Blackburn and the two Sheffield sides dominate the placings with Tony's team mate Jim Arnold taking third spot and Sheffield players filling the rest of the frame.

Player	Team	Games	Average
TONY PARKES	Blackburn	8	7.75
John McPhail	Sheff Utd	6	7.66
Jim Arnold	Blackburn	6	7.5
Alex Sabella	Sheff Utd	4	7.5
Terry Curran	Sheff Wed	7	7.42

Division Four

Walsall defender Tony Macken has the Fourth Division Matchman of the Month award to add to the joy of promotion.

And his team mate Ron Green makes it a double for the club by picking up fifth spot.

Player	Team	Games	Average
TONY MACKEN	Walsall	6	7.83
Alan Wooler	Aldershot	6	7.83
Tommy Hughes	Hereford	6	7.5

THE Home International Championship kicks off today. For the players it brings with it enormous pride as they pull on the jersey of their respective country in a competition atmosphere.

For the fans it's a time to join together and forget the rivalry of the League season . . . in England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland its all-for-one.

And the Championship this year is made that much more important by the European Championship Finals and World Cup games on the horizon for the four countries involved.

Here in a special seven page preview we get the views of four top stars . . . bring you great colour photographs of other key players in action — and tell you all you want to know about past Home Championship results.

RAY KENNEDY (England and Liverpool)

'We'll obviously be looking to win but it's not going to be easy — it's anybody's title as far as I am concerned and it could all be decided in our match with Scotland on the last day.'

JIMMY NICHOLL (N. Ireland and Man. Utd.)

'Wales and ourselves are under new management, Scotland are experimenting and all eyes will be on England to see how they are shaping up for Italy, but I'll be betting on us to win.'

ARCHIE GEMMILL (Scotland and Birmingham)

'With the World Cup ahead these matches are so important. We must get our house in order for the future but confidence is high.'

TERRY YORATH (Wales and Spurs)

'England will be the strongest team but it's been pretty close in recent years and Wales have been there or thereabouts and we'll be looking for two good results at home.'

THE 1980 HOME INTERNATIONALS

It isn't going to be easy warns a cautious Ray Kennedy but . . .

Scotland game will be the decider

IN THE whole of this century only one hat-trick has been scored against England in a Home Championship match — by the late Alec Jackson (Huddersfield Town outside right) in a 5-1 Scotland Wembley win on March 31, 1928.

Ray Kennedy — "Anybody's title as far as I am concerned."

ENGLAND'S showpiece match with Scotland on the last day may well decide the Championship . . . that's the view of mid-field star Ray Kennedy.

But he adds: "I wouldn't like to say who will win the title — it's anybody's as far as I am concerned."

His caution may be well founded because England — although almost sure to start favourites — may be without five of their stars . . . Kevin Keegan, Laurie Cunningham, Tony Woodcock, Mick Mills and Trevor Francis.

Says Kennedy: "These games will be an important guide for the European Championship Finals and it's a shame we won't be able to put out a settled side, but it might give a few youngsters the chance of some experience . . . players like Alan Sunderland and Alan Devonshire.

"I've only seen Devonshire play on the television, but I know plenty about Alan Sunderland after our FA Cup semi-final with Arsenal and I think he deserves his chance.

"With England at the moment you are just pleased to be included in the squad — and there's always a chance you'll get a game.

"Obviously we'll be wanting to win this Championship, but it won't be easy."

England have only one game at Wembley

— against the Irish — and Kennedy says: "It's always hard to go to places like Scotland and Wales and play but it really doesn't matter where you are playing if the team's playing well — you are playing for England and that's the important thing."

England's first game is against Wales at Wrexham. Wales beat England 1-0 at Wembley in 1977 and forced a draw last year but it was 1955 when England last lost in Wales.

Says Kennedy: "They haven't got a lot of what you might call big names, but they work well as a unit and they'll fight hard on their own ground."

Wembley is the venue for England's next opponents Northern Ireland. England won 2-0 in Belfast last year and although Ireland won 1-0 at Wembley in 1972 they have only ever beaten England six times.

"With the Arsenal lads in the side they will be very strong defensively," says Kennedy.

Then comes the big one — Scotland at Hampden . . .

"I think this is where the Championship could be decided and Scotland will be fighting like hell because they are playing England.

"Scotland will want to finish top and say they have beaten the English — it will be up to us to pull our socks up."

Scotland for me

Scotland — backed by their fanatical Tartan army — will win the Home International Championship.

While I can't see Wales or Northern Ireland posing any serious threat to either of the other two countries I believe the title will be decided on the last day at a packed Hampden when Scotland take on England.

I reckon Scotland will win the battle of the arch rivals and that will decide the issue. England will have to settle for second spot.

Here are my match predictions. Have a go yourself to add some extra interest to the enjoyment of the championship.

How we play means more than results

ARCHIE Gemmill's not worried about Scotland's results in the Home Internationals . . . it's only the performances that interest him.

Gemmill said: "With the World Cup campaign about to begin these Championships are so important for Scotland.

"We've got to get our own house in order for the tricky matches ahead. That's why the performances will mean more than the results.

"Confidence is high in our camp following the 4-1 win against Portugal in our final European Championship game.

"I just hope we can build on this in the Home Internationals and carry it onto the World Cup."

With the two teams due to meet in Group Six of the World Cup, Scotland's opening fixture in the home tourney away to Northern Ireland, assumes extra importance.

But Scottish captain Gemmill denies that a victory either way on Friday will go a long way to deciding the World Cup issue.

"It's a totally different game," he added.

"We could win in Belfast but lose in the World Cup and vice versa. It's going to be interesting as it's the first time we've gone to Belfast in ten years — but I don't think this will affect our performance.

"We mustn't worry about the other countries — it's only what Scotland do that counts. People say the England fixture will be the crucial one but that game is no more important than the rest."

Gemmill missed last year's championship through Nottingham Forest's progress to the European Cup Final and he's pleased to be involved again.

THE 1980 HOME INTERNATIONALS

Welsh captain TERRY YORATH says. . .

'We've proved we are no push-overs'

ENGLAND remain the team everyone has to beat . . . according to Terry Yorath who drove Wales to within a point of the Championship last year.

He told Match: "Even if they are without players from abroad, like Kevin Keegan, they will still be the strongest team."

"The squad Ron Greenwood has got together now is so strong he could put out two teams."

Despite his admiration for England — winners of the Championship for the past two years — Yorath is hoping for good things under new team manager Mike England, who he feels will be using this competition as vital preparation for Wales' World Cup campaign which begins on June 2.

"I think Mike may make a couple of changes to give players experience for the forthcoming World Cup matches," says the Welsh skipper.

"That's not to say we won't be trying to win this one, but Mike may be looking to blood a couple of youngsters."

"I think the young goalkeeper from Bristol Rovers, Martin Thomas, and David Giles of Swansea may well get a game."

Yorath is quick to point out that Wales have been no push-overs in the past few years.

"It's been pretty close and Wales have been there or thereabouts. The spirit among the Welsh squad has always been good and we would have won the Championship last year if Scotland had got a result at Wembley in the last match."

"I was watching the game at Wembley the day after our game on Friday and it was just like watching a Cup Final, knowing the outcome was so important to us."

"Our players tend to look forward to playing at stadiums like Hampden or Wembley because we haven't really got a recognised national stadium."

"But this year we have two home games — against England and against Northern Ireland — and we'll be looking for two good results."

"We get great support in Wales and if anything it has grown over the past few years."

Wales kick off their Home International campaign in Wrexham against England. Says Yorath: "There are so many different ways they can play it's difficult to say how it might go. They might play Bob Latchford or David Johnson at centre forward, Kevin Reeves could come in."

"They are strong in midfield but we have probably been at our strongest in that department."

"We battle it out and we have often come out on top. We drew with England at Wembley last year but the year before that we lost 3-1 in Cardiff and that was a bit of a let down."

Great season

Scotland are Wales' next opponents at Hampden Park:

"We beat them last year for the first time since 1964 and I don't think our players will be overawed by Hampden."

"There are any number of good Anglo-Scots like Joe Jordan, Kenny Dalglish, Archie Gemmill, Graeme Souness — and Steve Archibald of Aberdeen has been having a great season. Then there's Andy Gray of course."

"Maybe at the back they are not so strong but they still have people like Gordon McQueen and Alan Hansen. Scotland may well be doing the same as us and experimenting a little."

Wales' last game is against Northern Ireland at Ninian Park, Cardiff.

"Our last game is always against Northern Ireland and it can be a bit of an anti-climax after playing at Hampden or Wembley."

"The Irish team is much the same as ours in that it depends very much on teamwork and they played some good football against us last year."

Terry Yorath — "Ron Greenwood could put out two teams."

JIMMY NICHOLL looks at his country's chances

My money's on Northern Ireland

THE WEE man who stretches 'ten feet tall' when he pulls on the green jersey of Northern Ireland is, once again, putting money on his side for the Home Internationals.

Manchester United's popular right-back Jimmy Nicholl said: "I always have a little dabble on our chances. We are such long odds that it's worth it!"

But behind Nicholl's joke lies a firm belief that Northern Ireland can this year make up for all those barren seasons in the end-of-term tourney.

"Our game at home to Scotland on Friday is of vital importance — and not only because we have to meet them in group six of the World Cup later on.

"We haven't played Scotland at home for ten years so it will be interesting to see how we get on. We've always done well at Hampden in recent years, but never had the run of the ball.

"With our own supporters behind us we should do better and, if we win, who knows what will happen."

Nicholl always looks forward to the international bonanza but says the interest this time will be greater than for some years.

"Both Wales and ourselves are under new management, Scotland are still experimenting to find their best team and all eyes will be on England to see how they're shaping for Italy.

"Ireland always enjoy themselves and, despite finishing bottom last year, we'll go out with confidence.

"There are so many United players involved in the competition that it's a major talking point at this time of year. Sammy McIlroy and I always stick up for Ireland because we know we've got a good team.

"John O'Neill of Leicester has settled in really well at the back and Tottenham's Gerry Armstrong always does great for us."

Nicholl looks like furthering his international career in a defensive role — despite relishing the midfield role he had in last year's championships.

"I was involved all the time and I really enjoyed it, but when I spoke to Billy Bingham before the Israel game he said he wanted me at right back.

"We seem to have a surplus of midfield players but are short everywhere else.

"Billy Bingham impressed me in his first game as manager.

"I've a feeling we'll be a little more defensive than when Danny Blanchflower was in charge. It's not to say he'll restrict us in any way but I think there'll be more discipline in our play.

"We'll definitely be pulling out a bit extra for the new boss. It's only natural that players go out determined to show what they can do."

Jimmy Nicholl: "We'll definitely be pulling out a bit extra for the new boss."

ASK US

Penny Farnsworth of Market Harborough asks:
Have all 11 First Division matches ever ended in a draw?
No, but eight of the 11 on Jan. 19, 1974, were drawn.

Sean Grimes of Sutton Coldfield asks:
After recently watching a football match the goalkeeper got injured. Even though it was not a foul, before the ball went out of play the ref stopped the game and the 'keeper was treated. The game was then restarted by a dropball. Was this decision correct or should the game have carried on until the ball went out?
It is a matter for the discretion of the referee.

Daryl Clarke of Holyport, Maidenhead, asks:
What's the highest score that England have got against any team and what's the highest number of own goals in one match?
England's biggest-ever win in any full international match was 13-0 v. Ireland at Belfast on Feb. 18, 1882.

David Ball of Longridge, Preston, asks:
Could you please tell me how many appearances Tom Finney made for England and also how many goals did he score?
Tom Finney made 70 appearances, scoring 30 goals, for England in full international matches between 1947 and 1959.

Jeremy Elson of Guildford, Surrey, asks:
Please could you tell me how many goals Peter Osgood and Tommy Baldwin scored between them in their playing careers with Chelsea and how many hat-tricks they scored?
Peter Osgood scored 103 goals (two hat-tricks) in 267 Football League matches with Chelsea and Tommy Baldwin 74 goals (one hat-trick) in 177 matches.

Michael Chappell of Sheffield asks:
Did Sheffield United ever score five goals against the Arsenal team of the 30's at Bramall Lane? If so, in what year?
Sheffield United's biggest wins against Arsenal in the Thirties were two of 4-1, both at home, on Dec. 16, 1929, and Dec. 25, 1931.

R. Thompson of Preston asks:
Who was the last player in the First Division to score a hat-trick in three successive matches? The last player to score three hat-tricks in successive First Division matches was Jack Balmer for Liverpool v. Portsmouth (home) on Nov. 9, 1946, Derby County (away) on Nov. 16, and Arsenal (home) on Nov. 23.

Carl Forster of Newtown, Birmingham, asks:
I am a loyal Birmingham City supporter and I would be grateful if you could tell me the name of the ground that Blues played on before moving to St. Andrew's.
Before Birmingham moved to St. Andrew's in 1906 they had played at Muntz Street, Small Heath, since 1877.

Richard Harms of Bolton asks:
My dad says Bury held the record score for an F.A. Cup Final. Is it true?
Yes. They defeated Derby County by 6-0 on April 18, 1903.

I'm not

ARSENAL's fantastic run-in to the end of the season has only doubled Tottenham's determination to bring the glory days back to White Hart Lane next season.

What bigger spur can we have than the knowledge that Arsenal are the top dogs in north London.

But in one way it's got to be good for Tottenham. Any success that Arsenal — or the other clubs — bring to the capital has to be favourable for every London side.

I know most of our supporters will disagree with me. They'd prefer to see Arsenal struggling at the bottom of the table. The rivalry between the two clubs is that fierce.

That rivalry doesn't affect me. A lot of the Arsenal players live close to my Hertfordshire home — Alan Sunderland used to live next door — and I know them as friends as well as opponents on the pitch.

I want to beat the Gunners as keenly as the rest of the Tottenham side. We know it means so much to our fans to come out tops in the two League games — but it's not the be-all and end-all for me.

This season we let our supporters down, losing 1-0 at Highbury on Boxing Day and 2-1 at home on Easter Monday.

The latter defeat was the worst

jealous of the Gunners

Their success is good for Tottenham to bear because Arsenal were only able to field a half-strength side due to injuries. But they showed their tremendous strength in depth by winning with two late goals.

They did it again at Coventry on the last Saturday of the season. Only five players remained from the team which two nights earlier knocked out

Liverpool in the FA Cup semi-final third replay, but they still returned home with the points.

Youngsters like goalkeeper Paul Barron, defenders John Devine and Steve Walford and forward Paul Vaessen mean that Arsenal's continued good health on the field is assured.

Archie Gemmill said in this magazine last week that he thought they were very close to being the best team in Britain and would definitely be the team of the eighties. I can't agree with that!

Despite their defeat by Arsenal in the semi-final and definite signs of weakening in the latter stages of the League campaign I stick with Liverpool as my choice for the team of the eighties.

The signings of Ian Rush from Chester and Richard Money from Fulham are typical of the way the Liverpool system works. A fantastic season when they went so close to carrying off the Double, a season when they entertained millions of fans up and down the country — and yet they're still not satisfied.

● I will be giving you my views on the England v Argentina clash at Wembley in my next column.

ARDILES

OSVALDO WRITES FOR YOU IN MATCH WEEKLY

Back to Argentina

BY THE time you read this week's column I'll be winging my way across the world to spend the close season in my home country.

I've already had a week's break in Miami after Tottenham's final game with Bristol City so I'm well and truly into the holiday spirit.

But to be honest I'm not one of those players who yearn for the close season. I like my football too much. There's no doubt I shall miss it during the summer weeks and I'm already looking forward to the opening shots of the new season.

Fortunately, being so slim in build I don't have any problem keeping fit when I'm not playing. I can lounge around all through the sunny days and not worry about the rigours of pre-season training when I get back.

But I'll still get a bit of exercise. My friends in Argentina will pressure me into joining in their friendly kickabouts.

I shall also watch plenty of football. The Argentinian season goes on all through the English summer and I'll get to a game most Saturdays.

If you think the English close season is short you should spare a thought for the Argentinian footballers.

Their close season extends to three weeks — if they're lucky! But it doesn't seem to bother the players because their programme is nowhere near as demanding as ours. There are no midweek games, fewer cup games and the pressure of two fixtures a week doesn't exist.

The rest of the time I shall be catching up on the gossip from my friends and relations and playing a lot of tennis and chess.

The 'ups and downs' of the Buckley brothers . . .

DELIGHT AND DESPAIR

The Brothers
PART TWO

AS BROTHERS Steve and Alan Buckley take a well-earned summer break, they will look back on a season of vastly contrasting fortunes.

Alan has every reason to be delighted with his soccer achievements. As player-manager of Walsall he has led the side to promotion from Division Four . . . in his first season in charge.

Meanwhile at the other end of the scale, Steve — the younger brother by two years — can only reflect on a season of disappointment that led to relegation from Division One for his side, Derby County.

Says Alan: "We see a lot of each other, because we only live a couple of miles apart. Steve's disappointed from a club point of view and his own personal point of view.

"He doesn't regard himself as a Second Division player and no-one wants to play in the Second if they can play in the First.

"From my own point of view I am delighted with the way things have gone. You can't make rash statements about next season, but we have the basis of a good team to make the step-up," added Alan, who has scored more than 160 goals for Walsall in his two spells with the club.

Of his brother Steve, Alan says: "I've seen him play quite often. He's a good strong player with a super left foot and he knocks some good balls in for the strikers.

"He loves to get forward and attack and perhaps he hasn't been able to do that as much as he would have liked this season."

As hopeful youngsters both Alan and Steve hoped to make a name for themselves with Nottingham Forest. Alan was taken on and in fact made 16 first team appearances for the club but Steve was told he wasn't wanted.

Recalled Alan: "Steve was only 15 at the time and it was very disappointing. He ended up in dead end jobs in a brewery and working as a plumbers mate.

"But then he was taken on by Luton and obviously I was delighted for him," said Alan.

Steve takes up the story: "I was pleased for our Alan that he had made it but I had to go out and find a job.

"I was still playing football on a semi-professional basis with Burton Albion and I was enjoying myself although I still wanted to turn pro."

It was four years later, at 20 years of age, that Steve finally made the grade with Luton Town — then in the First Division.

But Luton, of course, were relegated before Steve finally moved on to his present club, Derby. Now he faces the agony of the drop again but whether his future is with Derby remains to be seen.

"We shall have to wait and see. I still have another year of my contract to run, but I want First Division football."

Of his brother Alan he says: "He's always likely to score goals. He's got good ball control and he's very sharp in the six yard box. I just hope it goes as well for him next season."

Walsall boss Alan Buckley: "We have the basis of a good team to make the step-up."

Derby's Steve Buckley — doubts over his future at the club.

On the eve of Forest's European Cup Final against Hamburg, Clough says . . .

Germans can teach us so much

I'VE been following German football for the last thirteen years — so there is a lot about Hamburg's play that we'll be acquainted with when we meet them in Madrid on May 28 in the European Cup Final.

When I took over at Derby in June 1967, one of the first things I did was to arrange a pre-season tour of Germany to find out more about them to give us the ideal preparation for the massive challenges that were ahead of us.

I remember the time because it was a nightmare — not for me, but my wife. She had three children all under the age of five, we had moved into a house in Derby, there were no carpets on the floor — and I was shooting off to Germany with the lads!

But we found the experience rewarding just as we have on our pre-season trips to Germany with Nottingham Forest.

On that first occasion I went with Derby. I was a young up-and-coming, eager-to-learn manager and I picked up more in that ten-day trip than most managers get to know in a year.

I was fascinated by German football after they came to England in 1966 and took us to extra time before we won the Franz Beckenbauer — all the skill and composure to be an outstanding performer on any stage.

World Cup.

But what happened immediately after has to go down as a plus for the West Germans and a black mark for us. In the aftermath of 1966, the Germans set about developing their game with individual skill while we stood still.

I've always thought — and still think — that West German football is the nearest to our own. But after losing at Wembley they put much greater emphasis on individual talent . . . and it showed.

They reached the semi-finals of the 1970 World Cup in Mexico before losing to Italy 4-3 and in 1974 took the title on their own Munich soil.

So they progressed while we stood still — and they had masters of the arts to help them achieve things.

In Franz Beckenbauer they had a player with all the skill and composure to be an outstanding performer on any stage. With the likes of him in their side, they were always going to be competing on level terms with the best in the world.

Then they had a guy called Gerd Muller, who didn't play against England in 1966. But he was soon emerging as one of the top strikers in Europe — if not the world. He proved it in Mexico, where he finished as leading scorer with 10 goals in the 1970 World Cup.

They are just two of the extraordinary examples of German class we have witnessed over the last decade or so and from what we know and hear they are on their way to producing another side that can be equally powerful.

The strengths of West German football are showing through at club level and it's no coincidence that as well as Hamburg reaching the final of the European Cup, the last four in the UEFA Cup all came from the Bundesliga.

When we knew we were in the final alongside Hamburg we were not exactly in the dark about them. But, even so, Peter Taylor and I have made certain that we've had a good look at them recently. As I said, there is always something you can learn from the Germans.

Brian Clough

● NEXT WEEK I will talk frankly about Hamburg's Kevin Keegan and the friction between us. I will also name another Hamburg player who I believe will be a major threat to Forest in the European Cup Final.

WEMBLEY belonged to West Ham's marvellous bubble-blowing FA Cup Carnival Final.

The roar from the East End faithful almost lifted the famous stadium.

West Ham had done it. The FA Cup back to the East End for a right reception.

But not before the traditional Hammers heroes pranced around the pitch their fans sang like they had won.

For Arsenal's shattered stars it was the Cup for the second successive year. They were tired and beaten.

NAREY'S MAN OF

'Keepers on the market

TWO BIG name goalkeepers on the market again are Stewart Kennedy, of Rangers, and Thomson Allan, of Hearts.

Both of them were internationals — Kennedy being capped six times and Allan an understudy to David Harvey in the 1974 World Cup Finals in West Germany.

The game Kennedy would most like to forget was the five-goal drubbing by England at Wembley in 1975. He was dropped by both club and country immediately after that, with Peter McCloy taking his place in the Rangers side.

There are suggestions now that Rangers may attempt to lure Middlesbrough keeper Jim Stewart back to Scotland.

Hammers to up McDicken bid?

FA CUP finalists West Ham may have failed in a £200,000 bid for Kilmarnock's 25 year-old central defender Derrick McDicken earlier in the season — but manager John Lyall doesn't give up that easily.

The West Ham boss and assistant manager Eddie Bailey made a top secret trip to again watch McDicken in one of the closing matches of the season against Dundee. Now they are considering increasing their offer.

Kilmarnock, part-time and shrewdly successful in buying and selling players, are in no hurry to part with their giant defender. In the past most of their big money sales have taken some time to get off the ground.

Rangers, for example, had to make two attempts before getting Gordon Smith for £65,000 and Middlesbrough had to show patience before landing goalkeeper Jim Stewart for around £100,000.

Says McDicken: "Naturally, I was disappointed when the first move fell down, but I know that the club never jump into transfers too hastily."

"It would have been nice to have been part of the side which played in the FA Cup Final, but really all I can do is sit and await developments."

Another club prepared to spend big money in Scotland are Stoke City, who are again set to enter the race for St. Mirren's international left-back Ian Munro. The asking figure is around £300,000.

MAGNIFICENT consistency as Dundee United clawed their way up the Premier Division has earned central defender David Narey our coveted 'Matchman of the Month' award for April.

Narey, aged 23, who is set to win his fourth Scottish cap in the Home Internationals next week, wins a handsome MATCH WEEKLY plaque and a cheque for £100.

"I'm delighted to win it," he said. "It will go nicely with my new Scottish League Cup winners' medal.

"We have recovered from a poor start to the season when my defensive partner Paul Hegarty was injured, but recently we have pulled ourselves up with some good results including a 1-1 draw with Aberdeen.

"I'm confident we can do well in the league next season. We have all grown up together and with Willie Pettigrew, David Dodds and Paul Sturrock on form, we can make a big challenge to make up for last season when we blew it after leading the table for most of the season."

Goalkeepers continue to dominate the Scottish MATCH FACTS averages — indeed there are four in the top eight.

Best of them is Partick's international Alan Rough, who edges Hibernian keeper Jim McArthur into third spot.

The joke's on Jock!

LEICESTER City boss Jock Wallace received something of a hero's welcome when he turned up at the Football Writers dinner in Glasgow at which Aberdeen's Gordon Strachan received his Player of the Year Award.

Welcoming big Jock, chairman Hugh Taylor cracked: "Nice to see the big fellow here tonight and congratulations on leading Leicester back to the First Division . . . in his usual gentle manner!"

WORLD Cup stars Osvaldo Ardiles and Ricardo Villa will both be in the Spurs side to meet Rangers at Ibrox in a challenge match on Monday, August 4.

The match is for the opening of the new Ibrox 7,500 seater grandstand. It will bring the seating capacity at the stadium to 37,000. Already over 1,000 fans have booked seats in the stand at a package price of £46.00 for the entire season.

AIRDRIE fans still celebrating their club's promotion to the Premier Division for the first time have received another boost with the news that top scorer Sandy Clark is to stay at the club.

Clark, who is also club captain, delighted the demanding Broomfield fans by signing a new two-year contract.

Greaves — Bolton were right

IT'S disgraceful that Bolton have been so vehemently attacked for sacking Ian Greaves. Up to his departure they'd won only a couple of games all season.

But when Stan Anderson was brought in the tide turned and famous victories were scored over Nottingham Forest and Spurs. The decision to sack Greaves has been proved to be thoroughly justified and the Bolton directors should be congratulated for making such a brave decision.

James Bromet, Daventry, Northants.

Where the blame lies

IT'S disgusting the way some supporters call for their managers to be sacked. Just because their teams are going through a bad patch they have to blame somebody — either the manager or a certain player. But the supporters should also be blamed for disrupting the team.

As A Huddersfield fan I'm annoyed that Mick Buxton hasn't won a manager of the month award all season. Town have been in the top four of the Fourth Division all season and are the top scorers in the country.

Gina Stables, Huddersfield.

Forget the new strip!

HERE WE are on the verge of probably England's most important games at international level since 1966 and all people are concerned with is the pattern on the shirts. For heaven's sake it's the players inside the shirts that matter.

YOU CAN'T SUCCEED

SURELY there is a moral to be found in these days of ever-increasing transfer fees. Everton, West Brom and Manchester City all spent heavily this season but have struggled near the foot of Division One.

Arsenal, in comparison, have spent just £75,000 on John Hollins — but have challenged all season for the League, reached the final of the European Cup Winners' Cup, had a marvellous run in the FA Cup and reached the quarter finals of the League Cup.

You show them, Andy

I'M FED up with the way Scottish soccer critics are carrying on about Andy Ritchie of Morton saying he's "a load of rubbish".

Andy has a lot of talent but, unfortunately for him, is going through a bad spell. I just hope Andy makes those critics eat their words.

John Wright (11), Kingsbarns, Fife.

John Hollins — a bargain for Arsenal at £75,000.

PROMOTED SIDES WILL STRUGGLE

I THINK the three sides that achieve promotion from the Second Division will struggle next season. They will need to buy proven First Division players if they're to survive. The team that stands the most chance of staying up are Birmingham.

P. Myers, Gateshead

No chance Italy!

I DON'T agree with those people tipping Italy to win the European Championship. In my opinion those savage, brutal, physical Italians have no chance.

For a start they won't be able to field a team because half of them are in prison over the bribes scandal. Even teams like Greece have nothing to fear from them and England, in my opinion, are invincible.

Mark Edwards, Rotherham.

Derby's Alan Biley — applauded for his sportsmanship at Anfield.

Let's see more sportsmanship

DURING recent games at Anfield Garth Crooks, of Stoke, and Derby's Alan Biley have stood out not because they had a good game, but because both retrieved the ball when caught outside. We should see more of this attitude in football.

Denis Hawkins (16), Wigan.

Let's have play-offs

IT WOULD be a good idea if there were third and fourth place play-offs in the FA Cup and League Cup. It would mean we could see the best losing semi-finalist and it would give the teams something to play for after missing out on Wembley. The games should be played on neutral grounds.

R. Lewis, Liphook, Hants.

Division Two reminder

I'M FULL of admiration for Ron Greenwood, but apart from Trevor Brooking he never names anybody from Division Two.

My team from the Second Division would be: Parkes, Money, Dennis, Bonds (capt), Gallagher, May, Ainscow, Devonshire, Blissett, Brooking and Moss.

Chris Marriott (16), Solihull.

Some sort of record?

MY CLUB Gientoran must hold some sort of record. Since the War they've produced no less than four players who have later managed their international teams.

Peter Doherty, Bertie Peacock, Danny Blanchflower and Billy Bingham all started their careers with Gientoran and then went on to manage their country.

Thomas McKee, Belfast.

OUTRAGED!

WELCOME to Outraged — the weekly column which stems from many of the outraged views we receive each week from MATCH WEEKLY readers — and which, in turn, outrage Match writer, Trevor HAYLETT. Why not outrage him still further — and win £2 in the process — by sending in your controversial and outrageous views to MATCH WEEKLY. And if you want to comment on his comments, go ahead.

Argentina — enough said!

I'M sick and tired of supposedly knowledgeable football fans still discussing Scotland's disastrous World Cup campaign of 1978. It is completely unnecessary as it was far from a disaster.

True enough Scotland failed in some areas, the Willie Johnston drugs episode for instance, but they did beat Holland in 90 minutes — a feat Argentina could not do. Where were England, N. Ireland, Wales and Eire?

Edmund Acheson, Newry, N. Ireland.

● I'll tell you where the other Home Countries were — back home laughing at Scotland's debacle. The only reason fans still talk about it is because Scotland never stopped talking about it before Argentina — and how they were going to return home with the trophy.

Don't make me laugh

YOU made me laugh when you said Ipswich could have beaten Manchester United 8-0. It was lucky that they won 6-0. Ipswich couldn't even beat Liverpool or score a penalty past Manchester United. You don't know what you're taking about.

John Powell, Small Heath, Birmingham.

● You make me laugh pal. Ipswich got a draw at Anfield this season — which is more than United did. And have you forgotten Mickey Thomas' missed penalty against Ipswich earlier in the season at Old Trafford — I certainly haven't.

Scots make me sick

I'M SICK to the teeth of Scottish players and fans complaining that English football is not all it's built up to be and that Scottish football is far superior. Up to now I've been generous and regarded this as 'over-patriotism', but now I can only attribute these opinions to total stupidity.

I have one message for these argumentative Scots — wait until England win the European Championships, the Home Internationals and qualify for the World Cup finals in '82, a competition in which Scotland will inevitably fail to qualify for again.

Martin Tyler, Bucks.

● What a smashing letter Martin. The only part which outrages me is that you declined to mention England will win the World Cup in Spain.

Give them a chance

THERE's been a lot of discussion in recent months of the outstanding skills of Ardiles, Muhren, Villa and Borota and the many other foreign players in our League. Exceptional players they might be but surely it is our national teams who will pay in the long run.

We should give our young players the chance to show what they can do.

John Clayton, Plumstead, London.

● I can't agree with you there. Our youngsters will become better players for playing with and against these marvellous imports.

HOW'S your soccer knowledge? See how many of these questions you can answer correctly. If you get all 15 right you could be in the running for the Brain of Sport title, which our question compiler, Julian Pincher, held in 1978. HOW I ROBBED RITCHIE

SUPER SAVERS

No 13 ALAN ROUGH
Partick Thistle and Scotland

BIRTHPLACE: Glasgow
BIRTHDATE: November 11, 1951
CLUB APPEARANCES: 500
INTERNATIONAL APPEARANCES: 31 Full, 9 Under-23 caps

"I DON'T have to cast my mind back far to remember my best save for Partick. It was on April 2 against Morton and Andy Ritchie bent a free-kick from 20 yards out round the wall to my left — as I was looking for it by my right hand post. I threw myself across the goal to tip it over as it headed for the angle of post and crossbar.

The one I remember for Scotland helped take us to the World Cup finals. It was 0-0 in the qualifier against Wales at Liverpool when John Toshack hit a lob volley and, falling backwards, I managed to tip it over. Shortly after we hit back to score two and make it to Argentina."

RIGHT: Alan Rough shows courage and determination as he comes to Partick's rescue again — this time in a League game against St. Mirren.

GOLDEN GOALS

TAKE THAT!

Terry Curran

(Sheff Wed.) v Sheff Utd. at Bramhall Lane, April 5, 1980.

MODESTY is not the greatest gift of down-to-earth Yorkshireman Terry Curran — but goalscoring is!

At Wednesday they love him — at Sheffield United he's the man they love to hate for his arrogant skills which he underlined with this brilliant solo effort in the Division Three derby clash.

"It was not only the best goal I've scored, but the best I've seen scored," Terry told MATCH.

"I got the ball on the by-line from David Grant's throw with two defenders on my back. They tried to keep me wide but my first thought was to try and get a penalty. I knew that if I got into the box they weren't touch me.

"I was driven wider and wider, but as I came round in an arc my speed took me past them and as soon as I got a sight of goal I whacked it from about 25 yards out. I knew I'd caught it right and their keeper said afterwards he thought I'd got thunderbolts in my boots!"

After a career which has taken him to Doncaster, Forest, Bury, Derby and Southampton, this is by far Curran's best season with more than 25 goals to his name.

Take that! Terry Curran taunts the United fans after scoring his wonder goal.

Cartoon Time

"I know there's no number on it, Boss ... I'm calling the streaker off!"

"I see that Polish import has finally got his name on the team sheet ... notice board ... and wall!"

"Just my luck — the only year I've ever had a Cup Final ticket!"

"Yes, we have had seven offers for you — but they were all from your mother."

FOOTBALL FUNNIES

Lytham and London readers have supplied the football funnies this week for our popular corner for the jokers of the week. Both win £2 with our compliments for their entries.

From 1 Wellington Street, Lytham, Lancashire, comes this one from G. Neal: The priests were playing the rabbis, but lost 36-0. They demanded a return match and this time signed up a new centre-forward — Father Eusebio! After the match the manager priest rang the monastery with the sad news ... they'd lost again, this time 2-1. "Who scored for us?" asked the abbot.

"Father Eusebio," came the reply. "... and for them?"

"Rabbi Dalglish and Rabbi Fairclough!"

Michael Shuldenfrei, of 67 Highfield Gardens, London MW11, submitted this one: A fan took his girlfriend to her first football match.

She asked: "What's the man in the green jersey do?"

The boy replied: "He has to stop the ball from going into the net."

"How much do they pay him?"

"About £200 a week."

"Wouldn't it be cheaper to board up the goal?" the girl enquired.

Nice ones, fellas. If any other readers have any original jokes or cartoons they'd like to submit, we'll pay £2 for the best ones. Send your entries to: "Football Funnies", Match Weekly, Midgate House, Midgate, Peterborough PE1 1UB.

George McCluskey — scorer of the winning goal in Saturday's Scottish FA Cup Final — pictured in action at Hampden Park.

Great to be home!

says Clive Woods, the Norwich flier

THERE's no truth in the rumour that Clive Woods has been camping outside John Bond's office all season.

The former Ipswich star's love affair with Norwich City doesn't stretch to those lengths — but there was no hiding his joy when the on-off transfer across East Anglia went through.

"It was a great move for me and I was absolutely delighted," Woods told Match Weekly. "I've always lived in Norwich, they were my favourite other team when I was at Ipswich and with Bobby Robson deciding to release me it couldn't have worked out better."

So John Bond had no trouble "selling" his club to Woods, and Ipswich no qualms about unloading one of their '78 FA Cup winning heroes to the local rivals.

"Ipswich were going great at the time," Woods said. "Eric Gates has done really well this season and the young Millwall lad Kevin O'Callaghan was brought in.

"So I wasn't surprised when Robson said I could go — although the decision was still left to me."

With the groin and ligament injuries that dogged his season at Portman Road now happily out of the way Woods is enjoying himself at Carrow Road — and relishing in a new role.

"I played all my football at Ipswich on the left side but John Bond has said he wants me to operate on the right.

"It's because Norwich have always played with a right-winger. But that's no problem — I'm naturally right-footed.

"Norwich have had a lot of injury problems in the second half of the season and we've lost our way a little, but there's no reason why we shouldn't do well enough next term to qualify for Europe."

TREVOR HAYLETT

Clive Woods — "No reason why Norwich shouldn't do well enough next term to qualify for Europe."

Now in its 7th year — the course that brings out your soccer talents to the full!

"I attended a C&G Soccer College and never looked back..."
STEVE WILLIAMS, SOUTHAMPTON & ENGLAND

Here it is! A fabulous chance to realise your top potential in soccer while training and meeting with star players.

THE C&G SOCCER COLLEGE is a five-day course containing a specially developed programme. From the moment you arrive it's excitement all the way as you run through the techniques of kicking, control, heading, dribbling and shooting, then progress onto attack and defence strategies. You'll also have an opportunity to play against a TOP SIDE in the area, as well as viewing soccer films.

But that's not all. THE C&G SOCCER COLLEGE courses include training with STAR PLAYERS selected from the top clubs — players like STEVE HEIGHWAY, BRIAN TALBOT, TREVOR BROOKING and many more.

Each course is residential and includes bed and full-board — leaving you to spend maximum time training, meeting the professionals and watching your progress as your soccer skills are brought out like never before!

There's already a big demand for this course, so don't delay! Send off for your booking form now and have a week you'll never forget.

Match Weekly Birthday Team of the Month

MAY

Graeme Souness — Liverpool's birthday boy.

OUR Birthday Team for May has some outstanding players in it and is notable, too, for some very interesting characters.

There's Sir Matt Busby, for instance. What a name to conjure with! He joined Manchester City from Denny Hibs way back in 1928 and here he is today, 70 years of age, serving the great love of his life, Manchester United, as a director and president, and another United favourite, George Best — whose future is now in doubt after being released by Hibernian.

Then there's Alan Ball. A great little player who has won honours with Everton, Arsenal and Southampton and has been across to America to win a Championship with Vancouver Whitecaps.

We mustn't forget Howard Kendall, who played in a Cup Final when he was only 17, and now, at 34, is player-manager of Blackburn.

Here's our May team, with day of birth after each representative's name, followed by clubs and honours:

DAVID McKELLAR (22) (Derby, ex-Ipswich, loaned to Colchester, Peterborough, Scottish Youth cap); HOWARD KENDALL (22) (Blackburn player-manager, ex-Preston, Everton, Birmingham, Stoke, England schools, Youth, Under-23); DON McALLISTER (26) (Tottenham, ex-Bolton); GRAEME SOUNESS (6) (Liverpool, Scotland, ex-Tottenham, Middlesbrough, Scottish schools, Youth cap); DAVID O'LEARY (2) (Arsenal, Eire, ex-Shelbourne, Eire schools, Youth cap); SIR MATT BUSBY (26) (Manchester United director, ex-Manchester City, Liverpool, ex-Manchester United manager); ALAN BALL (12) (Blackpool player-manager and Vancouver Whitecaps); ex-player Blackpool, Everton, Arsenal, Southampton, England); IAN WALLACE (23) (Coventry, Scotland, Dumbarton, Scottish Under-21); CLIVE ALLEN (20) (QPR, FA, England Youth, schoolboy); BRIAN KIDD (29) (Everton, ex-Manchester United, Arsenal, Manchester City, England Youth, Under-23, full cap); GEORGE BEST (22) (Hibs, ex-Manchester United, Stockport, Fulham, New York Cosmos, Aztecs, Fort Lauderdale, Cork Celtic, Northern Ireland).
